Chrysanthemums cultivated and bloomed at our Feltham Nursery.

A GOLD MEDAL

was awarded to us by the Royal Horticultural Society on

NOVEMBER 7th, 1911

for a group of Decorative Chrysanthemums in 5½ inch pots, for descriptions see page 18, for illustration see cover, and for press extracts, see below.

"Messrs. Veitch were the exhibitors of a group of Chrysanthemums in pots, the display forming the largest group in the hall. They were all of the decorative type, and magnificently grown."

Gardeners' Chronicle, Nov. 11th, 1911.

"The largest, and in many respects the finest, exhibit on this occasion was a splendid one of dwarf, bush specimens of chrysanthemums, grown in 48-sized pots, from Messrs. James Veitch and Sons, Chelsea; there was but one plant in each pot, produced from cuttings struck in March, and pinched four or five times to induce a number of dwarf growths. Each stem, in the case of the decorative sorts, carried one good bloom, and every plant carried a total of from twenty to twenty-eight of these fine flowers. A finer exhibit of cultural skill, or of splendid, useful material suitable for any garden, greenhouse, or conservatory it is not possible to conceive. The varieties were represented by about a dozen specimens of each and among double decorative sorts those of special merit were Caprice du Printemps, Yellow Cap (A.M.), White Cap, Red Cap, Purple Cap, Dazzler, Felton's Favourite, Greening's Caprice, and Kathleen Thompson."

The Gardener's Magazine, Nov. 11th 1911.

"Messrs. James Veitch and Sons, Chelsea, arranged a glorious bank of Chrysanthemums largely, though not entirely, of the sports of the once well-known Caprice du Printemps, a variety which has proved exceedingly prolific in its sport-giving proclivities. Of the sports alone there were some seven variations displayed, the plants models of their kind, arranged bank fashion and in from a dozen to a score of plants. The latter were, as we have said, of model growth—examples of about 18 inches high and about the same in diameter—superbly grown and flowered, and furnished to their bases with healthy foliage. It is such plants as these that are suited to almost every phase of decoration, and may be introduced to the sitting-room or the dinner-table with advantage."

The Garden, Nov. 11th 1911.

This section of Chrysanthemums undoubtedly deserves the attention of growers who desire dwarf-growing, free-flowering, shapely pot plants (see illustration on cover). Our GOLD MEDAL group of these at the Royal Horticultural Society's Hall on Nov. 7th, 1911, won the admiration of all who saw our plants in 5½ inch pots, not exceeding two feet in height and each having 18 to 26 perfect blooms. For decorative purposes and where quantity of bloom is desired they have no equal.
